Fiscal conservatives should consider revenue-neutral carbon tax for economic growth

Washington, D.C. – The Alliance for Market Solutions (AMS) today issued the following statement on President Trump’s budget proposal.

“The White House’s new budget projections are a reminder that we need innovative new fiscal policies for long-term economic growth,” said Alex Flint, Executive Director of AMS. “Fiscal conservatives should consider growing our economy by cutting outdated energy regulations that stifle growth and replacing them with a revenue-neutral carbon tax. A revenue-neutral carbon tax will grow the economy, create a market for clean-energy technologies, and generate over $1 trillion in new revenue that can be used to make tax cuts permanent or reduce other taxes.”

The Alliance for Market Solutions (AMS) aims to create a conversation among conservatives on the benefits of market-oriented solutions to one of America’s pressing economic challenges: advancing clean energy and reducing carbon pollution. AMS believes in the need for pro-growth solutions for our economy, replacing harmful government regulations, and responding to changing public attitudes and demographics.

Alliance for Market Solutions (AMS) is an organization of conservative leaders with experience in business, government, and the intellectual community who know that markets and economic incentives are the most powerful drivers of change and are more efficient and effective than top-down regulation. We aim to educate conservative policymakers on the benefits of market-oriented solutions to one of America’s most pressing economic challenges: advancing clean energy and reducing carbon pollution.

The carbon tax policy we support is consistent with a pro-growth conservative agenda. It would replace costly regulations and prevent new regulations from burdening families and job creators. And it would eliminate economically harmful taxes on investment and family incomes. AMS is a 501(c)(3) non-profit educational organization. We don’t engage in electoral politics on behalf of any candidate, campaign or party. We are recruiting allies and developing policy analyses to help conservative policymakers consider a pro-growth, conservative carbon tax policy.
